Nottingham City Council has worked with the University of Nottingham to develop a predictive analytics model to identify families known to Children's Integrated Services who are at particular risk of becoming homeless. The project aims to enable the Housing Solutions Preventative & Assessment Team to identify and offer pre-emptive support to families identified as at risk of homelessness.

The predictive model processes limited and defined pseudonymised Nottingham City Council & Department for Work and Pensions data related to families known to Nottingham City Council Children's Integrated Services, producing a risk rating for each based on protective or risk-based factors, prioritised and evaluated by the model. This is then output as a list of families identified as at risk, ordered by their risk rating.

The Preventative & Assessment Team review the risk and protective factors that the model has used to determine the risk rating and can access details of the workers from Children's Integrated Services who know the family.

A discussion between the Preventative & Assessment Team and Children's Integrated Services will determine whether pro-active contact and an offer of support is appropriate. The nature of the support offered will be informed by the families' context and needs as understood by Children's Integrated Services and families will in all cases be able to decide whether to engage with the support offered or not.

Nottingham City Council are the data controllers for the personal data (or personal information) that we process about you. When we process personal information relating to you, we will only do so when it is necessary and where we have a lawful reason to do so.

We will use the information provided by you for a number of reasons, depending on the service or reasons for interacting with you. This includes:

- identifying and offering optional support to families at high risk of becoming homeless

When we process your personal information, we will comply with data protection legislation and enable you to exercise your rights contained within the legislation.

What personal information will the Council process?

The information that we collect about you to fulfil the purposes, objectives, or to deliver the services outlined above will relate to your: (this may include all, or some of the following, depending on the service).
